NEWS FROM THE DIVISION

STATE LIBRARY REFLECTS ON BOOK MOVE

The Information Services section of the Alaska State Library recently moved their entire collection of books into our new home at the Father Andrew P. Kashevaroff building. Claire Imamura provided a summary of this move in a 5/5/2016 blog post on Since You Asked. Other “Since You Asked” blog posts can be found at <http://askasl.blogspot.com/>

THORNE BAY ASSESSED BY JESSE DRUCKER

As part of his work for the Alaska State Library VISTA in libraries program, Jesse Drucker performed a community needs assessment on Thorne Bay that focused on finding the causes and effects of un- and underemployment in Thorne Bay and what programming this may suggest.

We have posted a copy of Meeting Needs and Realizing Goals: A Community Need Assessment of Thorne Bay by Jesse Drucker on the library's website.

NEWS FROM L.A.M.S IN ALASKA

WHAT HAPPENS AFTER SOMEONE CLICKS "CONTACT US" ON ALASKA'S DIGITAL ARCHIVES?

Aside from many kinds of digitized content, Alaska's Digital Archives has a prominent button marked "Contact Us." But who is "us" in a multi-partner consortium?

In a 4/21/2016 blog post titled Alaska's Digital Archives reference: one year in, Arlene Schmuland explains that "us" is currently the Archives & Special Collections at the UAA/APU Consortium Library. She provided considerable detail on the 152 questions answered by staff in the past year. All while ensuring patron privacy.

OTHER ANNOUNCEMENTS

FREE NATURE PHOTOS FOR NON-PROFIT EDUCATION OR CONSERVATION EFFORTS

Noted Alaskan Naturalist Bob Armstrong has made over 3700 photographs available at <http://www.naturebob.com/photos>. The photos may be searched or browsed by the following categories:

- Amphibians
- Birds
- Fish
- Flowers and Plants
- Fungi
- Insects
- Invertebrates
- Lichens
- Mammals

These photos are free to use in some circumstances, per the website:

"These photos can be used, without charge, in not-for-profit ventures involving education and conservation. If the photos are to be used for educational or conservational purposes I would appreciate some recognition. Photo or photos by Bob Armstrong would be fine. If you wish to use any of the photos for a profit venture and/or you need a larger size please contact me."

Bob Armstrong's website naturebob.com also links to information about his books, including free pdf versions as well as short articles and nature videos.

LYNDA.COM OVERVIEW FROM TECHBOOMERS.COM

If your library subscribes to Lynda.com but need help in explaining this subscription education site to your patrons or if you are considering a purchase of Lynda.com for your library, you may find this TechBoomers course helpful. Visit <https://techboomers.com/p/lynda> to get started.

OVERDRIVE SHARES CHILDREN BOOKS QUOTES

In a light-hearted post titled 7 More Inspiring Quotes About Life from Our Favorite Children's Books, Adam Sockel of Overdrive shares some social media friendly quotes from children's books as a continuation of their celebration of Children's Book Week. Our favorite quote from this post was from Dr. Seuss:

Additional quotes shared by Overdrive can be found at <http://blogs.overdrive.com/tag/childrens-book-week/>.
